How To Motivate Your Employees ~ “Using Plato to make dough”

Classic wisdom teaches new ideas to motivate different types of employees. Learn how to give them what they need, so they will become even more successful in the workplace. A few quick pointers that will make a big difference in attracting the best and keeping them on your team.

Based on Plato’s work in The Republic, Lori Thurston will show how there are three types of workers in a society and each type has different needs to feel successful and productive. If an employer knows how to take care of the different types they will be much better motivators.
